Interrupted wedding

Young woman with two lovely kids is walking on the seaside boulevard occasionally shouting to children trying to catch the impudent sparrow.

The attention of the family brought the sounds of horns and sirens, wedding entourage, taxied up to the area with the fountains in front of the Government House. Recently, the newlyweds or their parents have brought fashion to the wedding feast to travel around the city and by prohibited beeps welcome guardians of order, flooded non visible sites of roads.

Kids! Wedding. Would you like to see?

- We want, we want - the kids screamed and for two hands dragged his mother to the fountains, where the wedding guests lined up in rank to the fussy photographer who aggressively tried to find a place for newlyweds.

Assertive kids, making his way through the cordon of the curious eyes stared in astonishment at the newlyweds.

- Dad??!! Mom! Dad is married!

However the father was so fascinated by a new young half that he had noticed neither mother nor children.

Mother was more reasonable and cold-blooded. She do not become to interrupt the prologue upcoming celebration, it was unclear how dragged kids into the bushes, who were unhappy that they were not allowed to attend the marriage of the Dad, by two leading questions she had clarified venue and the wedding feast and stuffing children into a taxi, drove off to the house of the parents living with three sons.

Altogether there were seven brothers to mother, four of whom lived in various parts of the city. However, on a first collecting signal all gathered in the paternal house and coolly drew up a plan of action.

In the midst of the wedding, all seven brothers, headed by the potential widow of the, as well as several dozen cousins and cousins burst into the restaurant and...

During the interrogation to a prosecutor stuttering waiters had long chosen the words to describe what happened.

An investigator was rubbing his hands with excitement: Thirty five accused and forty-six victims.

Dad was trying to explain in the hospital the presence of a second passport that was used for registration of his second marriage.

Mother could not vomit bitten off ear a young rival who in her turn immediately requested to find her a wig that can cover a bald which formed on her head.

The commander of the riot police caused to participate in the wedding celebrations, boring wrote down in notebook the names of detainees, in order not to be deceived in the calculations.
